

I pay for my phone service and as far as I'm concerned a telemarketers is no different than someone making a forced entry into my home. They have no respect for shift workers and they are definitely not concerned about interrupting your dinner. I support New Jersey's telemarketer law and I think the FCC should respect our wishers.